Comment(s) or question(s)	I am an 80 year old man on a fixed income. I have worked hard all my life to maintain a good credit score as a way of reducing my costs for things like loans and insurance premium's. As a direct result of your rule to prevent insurance companies to us credit score as a factor in establishing car insurance premiums my annual car insurance has increased by $350. That is a lot of money for a person who lives on social security and needs to reduce spending not increase spending to compensate for rapidly increasing inflation. Please reconsider your rule for seniors on fixed income that have been responsible citizens and maintained a good credit score. Thank you for your consideration.
